PROPERTY HISTORY

Benton Park was built by Corning Inc. in 2000-2001 to manufacture low-loss optical fiber for use in telecommunications. Corning spared no expense in its construction of the Benton Park facility. As a leader in technological innovation, Corning designed a facility far beyond its generation both functionally and aesthetically. However, due to corporate relocation and a shift in product design, Corning actually never moved in to Benton Park. Greystone Capital Partners acquired Benton from Corning Inc. in 2002.
